The Terms and Conditions and/or Privacy Statement may change as time passes. Please revisit this web page at a later date to re-check.

If you have any concerns about the Terms and Conditions and/or Privacy Statement please contact Irish Farm Computers Ltd (trading as AgriNet), 3 Church Street, Kells, Co Meath support@agrinet.ie 046-9249964.

The Terms and Conditions and Privacy Statement detailed here relate to the Cashminder.ie website and not to any third party website that links from the Cashminder.ie website.

The Terms and Conditions and Privacy Statement relate to the online software that is available from the Cashminder.ie website once you fill in the Sign up form and then Login using your username and password.

Cashminder.ie Terms and Conditions

1. Irish Farm Computers Ltd, (IFC), trading as AgriNet, periodically enhance the online software to improve the benefits to clients. The software may change at any time as it is improved.
2. IFC test the site for accuracy of data entry and data reports. If you notice a defect in the software or feel that any input screen or report needs to be changed or improved, let us know immediately and we will consider the issue and make changes if appropriate.
3. Every farmer/user undertakes to be responsible to check that their data is being recorded correctly and reported correctly. IFC will bear no responsibility for wrong decisions being made based on incorrect data being recorded or presented in reports.
4. If a farmer decides to stop paying an annual fee for access to the Cashminder.ie online software, the farmer and their advisor will still be able to access all the data for a period of at least one year. New data cannot be entered in this situation.
5. The Cashminder.ie software is located on a web server and there is a small chance that this server will be unavailable due to technical reasons. In this case

IFC will endeavour to have the server back online as quickly as possible once we are aware that the service has been affected.

6. Every user of the website is entitled to ask IFC for a copy of all data that they have entered to Cashminder.ie website in the event that they want to stop using the website.
7. Every user of the website is entitled to ask IFC to delete all of their records from the Cashminder.ie website in the event that they want to stop using the website.
8. IFC use SSL technology, and other processes, to protect the data on the web server. See the separate document of security audits to see steps taken to make the site secure.
9. IFC also have a rigorous backup procedure in place to keep backups of all data on the website. In the very rare event that these security and backup procedures fail to prevent loss of data, IFC cannot be held responsible for this data loss.

Cashminder.ie Privacy Statement

1. Data is stored on the Cashminder.ie central database for the purpose of helping farmers make better financial and management decisions.
2. Farmers can send invitations to accountants and farm advisors so that they can share farm management data over the internet. Once the other party accepts this invitation both parties are sharing Cashminder data for the farm involved. The objective is to make farm financial data visible to off farm financial experts so that better financial and management decisions can be made. No one can create these links other than the farmers themselves.
3. No one can break the link between two parties other than one of the two parties involved.
4. No organisation, company and/or individual can access a farmer's data without using the invitation process outlined in points 2 and 3 above. This includes staff of Irish Farm Computers Ltd (AgriNet).
5. During all telephone support situations, the only way a farmer can show their Cashminder.ie data to an Agrinet support technician is via points 2 and 3 above, or by giving the Agrinet support technician a Teamviewer remote access to the farmers own computer, in which case both farmer and support technician are looking at the same data, at the same time, on the same screen.
6. Never give your Cashminder.ie username and password to anyone. If you want to show your data to an off farm expert, ask them to sign up to Cashminder.ie themselves, and then send an invite from your farm to their username.
7. Every farmer can view the logins from all Cashminder.ie users to their farm data. This shows username plus the date and time accessed data for this farm.
8. Every farmer can see an audit trail of changes made to their accounts actual data. This shows old data, new data, date and time changed, and the user that made this change. This is done to avoid confusion and disputes when data is being used for important financial decision making. These audit trails cannot be changed or removed from the system.

9. Data can be downloaded electronically from Cashminder.ie screens for importing to spreadsheets. This may be used for example by farm advisors or accountants who wish to do further processing or formatting of the data. It is the responsibility of the person downloading this data to use this data only for the purpose it was entered and only in the best interests of the farmers who own the data.
